দুর্গাপূজা - ১৪১২ সাল

Durga Puja - 2005

প্রিয় সুধীবন্দ,

হাফা শুভ্র মেঘে ঢাকা নীল আকাশ, সাদা কাশফুলের দোলা, শিশির সিক্ত সবুজ ঘাস ও শিউলি ফুলের গন্ধ আমাদের মনে করিয়ে দেয় - শরৎ এসে গেল। দেবী দুর্গার আগমনে ও অভ্যর্থনায় পৃথিবী নববধূর সাজে সেজে উঠেছে আবার।

দুর্গা পূজার এই তিনটি দিনের জন্য সারা পৃথিবীর বাঙালীরা অধীর আগ্রহ ও উৎসাহের সাথে অপেক্ষা করে। বিশেষ করে প্রবাসী বাঙালীরা যারা দুর্গাপূজার পীঠস্থান - কোলকাতা থেকে এত দূরে - তাদের প্রতীক্ষা আরো সুদীর্ঘ বলে মনে হয়। দুর্গাপূজা আমাদের কাছে শুধুমাত্র একটি বাৎসরিক ধার্মিক অনুষ্ঠান নয়, এর মধ্যে আমরা খুঁজে পাই - জীবনের উৎস, সাংস্কৃতিক সূত্র, ঐতিহ্য ও প্রথার ভান্ডার।

এই সময় আমরা পরম্পরের কাছে চলে আসি, পুরোনো সম্পর্কের পুনর্মিলন ঘটে, নতুন করে পথ চলার উৎসাহ পাই। আমাদের সন্তার পুন: জন্ম ঘটে। শুধু এই নয়, আমাদের আবার ভালবাসা, আন্তরিকতা ও সকলের সাথে মিলে মিশে চলার কথা মনে করিয়ে দেয় এই উৎসব।

আমি পরম আনন্দের সাথে সকলকে আমন্ত্রণ জানাই হংকং-এ সপ্তম বৎসরের দুর্গাপূজায় অংশ গ্রহণ করতে এবং এবারের পূজাকে আনন্দমুখর করে তুলতে - হাসিতে, আলোতে ও প্রীতি শুভেচ্ছায়।

এবারের HKBA Committee-র তরফ থেকে আমি সকলকে ধন্যবাদ ও কৃতজ্ঞতা জানাই, যারা পূজার কাজকর্মে, সাজসজ্জায় ও ব্যবস্থাপনায় আমাদের স্বতঃস্ফূর্তভাবে সাহায্য করেছেন।

HKBA-এর তরফ থেকে Hindu Association যারা আমাদের প্রাঙ্গন ব্যবহারের সুযোগ ও সুবিধা দিয়েছেন - তাদের জানাই আন্তরিক ধন্যবাদ।

HKBA-এর অসংখ্য শুভেচ্ছা, ভালবাসা, অভিনন্দন ও ধন্যবাদ সকল ব্যবসায়িক সম্প্রদায়কেও-যারা চাঁদা, সাহায্য ও স্পনসরশিপ দিয়ে এই পূজাকে সক্ষম করে তুলেছেন।

HKBA-এর তরফ থেকে সকল সদস্য ও তাদের পরিবার পরিজনদের এবং সমগ্র ভারতীয় সমাজকে জানাই প্রীতি ও শুভেচ্ছা। আশাকরি সকলে সুস্থ থাকুন, ভালো থাকুন এবং মঙ্গলময় হয়ে উঠুক আপনাদের জীবন।

আসুন আমরা এক হয়ে, মায়ের আগমনে ও অভ্যর্থনায় - ভক্তিতে প্রীতিতে এবং আনন্দে মেতে উঠি।

শুভেচ্ছা সহ,

আশীষ সেনগুপ্ত

Dear Friends,

The azure of the sky, wispy white clouds, snow white crown of "Kash" flowers, dew glistened grass and the fragrant waft of "Sheuli" flowers - all these usher the onset of autumn that grooms up herself to Goddess Durga.

Durga Puja - three days of festivity, every Bengali all over the world waits with unlimited zeal and expectancy. And particularly by us, who live so far from the real place of action - Kolkata, the wait is all the more longer. Durga Puja means more to us than just an annual religious festival. It is a celebration of life, of our culture, our popular customs and traditions. It is the time for coming together, re-union, rejuvenation, the re-birth of our spiritual selves; and last but not the least, the season to love, to share and to care.

It is my pleasure to welcome all of you to celebrate Durga Puja 2005 in Hong Kong for 7th consecutive year in a whole new way, and make the Puja come alive with love, light and laughter in the hearts of ours.

I, on behalf of HKBA Puja committee, would like to take this opportunity to thank every one for their help with this year's Durga Puja decorations as well as with Puja itself.

I would like to extend HKBA's heartfelt thanks to Hindu Association for offering their premises to hold our celebration. I am also thankful to various business organizations, HKBA members and other individuals, who whole heartedly have supported this celebration through donations, sponsorship and advertisements along with their blessings and best wishes.

On behalf of HKBA Puja Committee, I would like to wish all the HKBA members, their families and involved Indian communities be endowed with health, happiness, peace and prosperity. Let us come forward to celebrate this auspicious occasion with all devotions, love and gaiety.

With best wishes,

Ashis Sengupta

HINDUISM : THE BASIC TENETS

Persians designated people residing on the eastern side of River Sindhu as Hindu. Later the term was applied to mean the religion of Hinduism. Hindi Dharma, with a history of 8000 years, is not restricted to religion and spiritual ideals, but covers the secular aspects of life too. It is a conglomerate of philosophy, religion and ethics. It has no single founding father and is based on Truth realised by sages at different ages. Its beginning cannot be traced, it is eternal, it has evolved over thousands of years strengthened by investigations and open debates. It is not a fixed religion based on the spiritual realisation and faith preached by any particular saviour who is regarded as a direct representative of God. It does not talk of a Creator God residing in Heaven. It says that God can be realised in this life through practice.

Philosophically, Hindus do not believe in creation of the universe by a Creator God out of nothing. The universe is a "manifestation" or "projection" out of the Infinite Absolute Reality (Brahman or God). Like birth, life and death of the microcosm (individuals), the universe (macrocosm) is also manifested or projected (Sristi), maintained (Sthiti) and dissolved (Proloy) with God as the substratum or source of the cycle. This phenomenal world, as projected, in which we live, is set upon the framework of Time-Space-Causation, which is the product of Maya, the natural creative power of God. Being a manifestation of God, the universe, all its life forms and all its knowledge (secular or spiritual) are considered divine and holy. The central theme of Hinduism states that God is the Inner Self (Atman) of man and of all entities in the universe, and that all entities are interconnected and interdependent. God does not sit isolated above the clouds in Heaven. Hinduism preaches the potential divinity of man. The Atman in man is a reflection of the pure consciousness of the Paramatman (God) at the level of intelligence of human beings. The human mind and senses remain externalised, and owing to the veil of Maya man wrongly identifies himself with the body. The Atman inside remains veiled to the man, till he takes positive steps in spiritual pursuits to realise his divine nature.

The Law of Karma (Cause and Effect) applies to all embodied Jivas. Simply said, this law means, "As you sow, so you reap". The universal law does not permit events to be haphazard, accidental or miraculous. They are all guided by the cause and effect relationship. Human beings often fail to realise the effects and blame fate or destiny. Effect becomes the cause in the next chain. Unwittingly, human beings fall prey to this law when they are not able to control their nature. The human soul transmigrates from life to life and progresses towards perfection in a series of re-births. Perfection implies "moksha" - the realisation of the divine nature within himself and attaining spiritual freedom from re-births. Transmigration carries with it the positive and negative Samskaras earned through action and thought in previous lives as well as in the current one. Man is free to act and shape his own destiny. In the long run the man will control nature, external and internal, and realise his own divine nature, whether he is a Hindu, a non-Hindu, or even an atheist. Here lies the universal appeal of Hinduism, for redemption is not exclusive to the domain of the Hindus. Religion helps you take the fast track to perfection, the freedom of the soul, which is indeed the goal of human life and not of seeking worldly or physical pleasures or even of seeking Heaven. This is achieved by divine grace when man transcends intelligence and moves beyond the framework of time-space-causation in the phenomenal world (Heaven is within the framework).

Realisation of God is achieved in this life, says Hinduism, and not after death as other religions state. They believe in eternal heaven or hell based upon the results of this one life on earth, however short the period may be. Hinduism appeals to the inner spiritual man and not the outer social man as in other religions. Hence Hinduism believes in inner transformation of man rather than adding to numbers through external conversion. Hindus have never fought to convert. The core of spiritual practice is detaching the mind from the worldly affairs and attaching it to God. Work is done as a service to God rather than for personal gains. This is not a one-off activity but a way of life consummated through regular practice. The four yogas preach communion with God. The spiritual aspirant, depending upon his natural inclination, will practise each of these, or a combination. Karma Yoga (path of work) is mainly practised by householders involved in action and it preaches unselfish and dedicated work by offering the fruits of the work to God and elimination of the sense of ego. The Bhakti Yoga (path of bhakti) is for the devotee who loves and worships the Lord and renders devoted service to all beings. Raja Yoga (path of meditation) helps to control the mind and meditate on God. The intellectual, practising Gnana Yoga (path of knowledge), reaches moksha by realising God in all of creation and by making a rational discrimination between the Real and Unreal.

Scriptural sanctity is placed in the Vedas, which also contain the rational and scientific Vedanta philosophy. The 3 foundational texts of the Vedanta philosophy are the Upanishads, Brahma Sutra and Bhagavad Gita. God is the infinite reality, without form, sex and is Omniscient, Omnipotent and Omnipresent. The devotional and personal fervour is missing, to many, in the impersonal aspect of God. Specially consecrated images of any adored form of the Lord are used in ritualistic worship, after invoking His divine presence in them. This worship through images is often condemned as idolatry, without realising that the images are mere symbols of God and He is worshipped through them. In contrast, images of Mary, Christ, Buddha and the tombs (Dargas) of saints and prophets are not "idolatry", they believe.

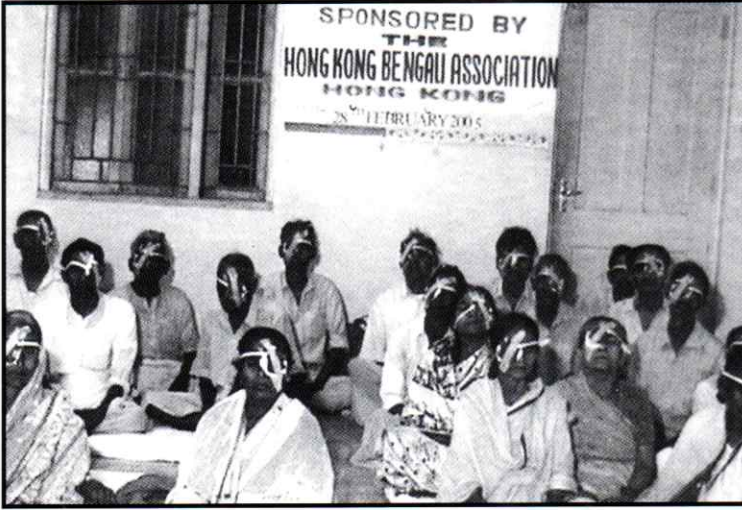

The four objectives of man are Dharma (ethics, morality and religious merit in social context), Artha (acquiring wealth and honour based on precepts of Dharma), Kama (fulfilment of legitimate physical, mental, intellectual desires on basis of Dharma and using Artha) and Moksha (spiritual freedom). The first three lead to social prosperity and heaven, whereas the last is the trans-social spiritual value that is the ultimate goal of man and society. The conceptual purpose is to take man through society to transcend it. The path of religious practice is uneven and tough during the formative years - one has to fight against the deeply ingrained adverse samskaras. Start walking the mile, and the distance will become shorter – Sri Ramakrishna Advised.

LIFTING THE VEIL OF DARKNESS

As the Hong Kong Bengali Association enters its seventh year of existence, it can look back with considerable pride and satisfaction on its growing standing as a cultural, social and religious organization catering to the Bengali speaking community from the Indian subcontinent resident in this bustling city. Of the Association's many activities, the one that perhaps deserves the greatest mention is its commitment, since its inception, to support institutions of charity that endeavour to make a difference in the lives of the less fortunate.

For the past several years the Hong Kong Bengali Association has been supporting an organization named the Sarada Seva Sangha based in Shibpur at Howrah in West Bengal. This small organization, which draws its strength and inspiration from the teachings of Swami Vivekanada and Ma Sarada, is run by a group of ladies who are completely dedicated to the spirit of service to mankind and united in their desire to instil hope where there is none, to arm the less fortunate with knowledge and practical skills, and thus give them the ultimate gift of independence and self-respect.

The HKBA, taking a keen interest in the activities of the Sangha, has now become one of its constant partners in their service towards the deprived and the under-privileged. One of the main areas of focus for the Sangha has been on fighting blindness in the aging population.

The HKBA, which has earlier assisted with the construction and expansion of the building from where the Sangha operates, The Shiv Mandir, requested that its donation for the year 2004 be used for the Sangha's blindness eradication project. From the sum donated, the Sangha was able to organize three separate eye camps from December '04 to March '05, in the process restoring eyesight to a total of one hundred and fifty patients. These patients, the poorest of the poor from Murshidabad district, were initially screened at eye clinics set up in the vicinity of the patients' homes.

RANNA – GHAR

Mango Kulfi

Ingredients

To serve

1 ripe but firm mango
4 passion fruit
1 tbsp cornflour
600ml evaporated milk

175g caster sugar
1 mango
1 pinch cardamom powder
150ml single cream

METHOD

1. Mix the cornflour with one tablespoon of cold water and set to one side.
2. Quickly bring the evaporated milk to the boil in a non-stick saucepan. Add the cornflour mixture and simmer for 2 minutes until it is the consistency of pouring custard. Stir in the sugar until dissolved, then transfer to a bowl and leave to go cold.
3. Peel the mango and slice the flesh away from the stone. Place in a food processor and blend to a smooth purée.
4. Stir the mango purée, ground cardamom and cream into the custard, and then press the mixture through a sieve into a clean bowl.
5. Now you can either churn the mixture in an ice-cream maker or pour it into a plastic container, cover with a lid and freeze until firm but not rock solid. This will take about two hours.

If using the latter method, after the two hours, transfer the ice-cream to a food processor and blend until smooth, then freeze for another hour. Repeat this process twice more, and then spoon it into six tall, freezer proof moulds – clean, small yoghurt pots are ideal. Freeze for at least 8 hours, or until firm.

6. To serve, peel the second mango and slice the flesh away from the stone. Halve the passion fruit and scoop out the pulp with a teaspoon. Cut the mango flesh into small, neat pieces and mix with the passion-fruit pulp.
7. Remove the kulfi containers from the freezer, and leave them at room temperature for five minutes, then turn them out onto serving plates. Spoon some of the mango and passion fruit salsa alongside and serve straight away.

FUN AND OUTDOOR EVENTS

The traditional Bijoya, gathering took the form of a boat party on the high seas amidst the dolphins. Shortly after leaving the pier, the ever-ravenous Bengalis, sea-sickness notwithstanding, dug into a hearty breakfast. They soon settled into a game of Antakshri, which, as usual, ended in pandemonium. After disembarking on an island, the group opted for a game of cards in the middle of a path, drawing many puzzled stares from other tourists. Few chose to undertake the arduous task of trekking under the hot sun. A sumptuous lunch, more singing and an evening tea completed the day's proceedings.

The picnicing earlier this year had plenty on offer for everyone, with cricket, cards, hikes and most importantly, food forming the menu. Perhaps Greg Chappell should focus his attention here to spot some talent for the coming World Cup! Pradip Putatunda, as usual, was as stubborn as Boycott in his defence. With breakfast, brunch and lunch almost running into each other, it was no wonder that little Raja promptly fell asleep while fielding under the tree.

Adda : an inescapable part of Bengali culture!

Devi-baran

The amity of Dashami evening after sindoor khela

Asthami night's cultural programme opened with a children's fancy dress show, followed by a musical and dance bonanza anchored by our guest artiste, Jairam.

Lakshmi puja, a week later, being conducted by Gautam Bhattacharya.

MEMORABLE EVENTS 2005

A well-prepared Nilanjan, our local priest for the occasion, fresh from a crash course in theology, leads the Saraswati Puja prayers. Mothers make use of this occasion to invoke the blessings of Ma Saraswati on their little ones through the ceremony of Haathey Khori.

January 2005 saw the Peshkar group from Kolkata, led by Subhen Chatterjee, renowned tabla artiste and a pioneer of Fusion music in India, give a electrifying performance at Hong Kong's Wei Hing Theatre that appealed to all age groups. While Raghav Chatterjee enthralled with his gifted voice, Deb Sankar Roy charmed the audience with his violin, and Subhas Mondal demonstrated his mastery of the keyboard.

For the second year running, the HKBA celebrated the Nobo Borsho function in the form of a mela at the India Club. The colourful stalls, the large variety of snacks and the games kept everyone entertained and the organisers busy, although here they seem rather relaxed!
